Foundation Prepares 2014 Courses

As you can see on the remainder of this newsletter, preparation for the Foundation’s slate of course offering for 2014 is in full swing!

Each year, your Foundation puts on anywhere from 25-55 courses on six continents around the world. These courses, including the Descriptive Veterinary Pathology Course, the Gross Path Review Course, the Pathology of Laboratory Animal Courses, and a variety of seminars and workshops in laboratory animal medicine, average 4-5 days long. International versions of these courses appear in Europe and South America every 2-3 years, attracting large audiences.

The Foundation’s slide seminars are well-known for their informal, fun nature, high quality of case presentations, and often beautiful locations. These one to two-day workshops are held annually in the northeastern US, California, Galveston, TX, and in conjunction with the annual meetings of the AAZV and the IAAAM (this year’s on Australia’s Gold Coast). These courses are a great way to network, hear wonderful speakers, and display some of your most interesting cases to a wide audience of trainees and experts.

The Foundation’s Day-seminars cover a wide range of subjects in toxicologic pathology. Targeted at pathologists working in the pharmaceutical industry, these useful workshops bring cutting edge info to those who need it most. The Foundation’s Northeast Division is entering its 24th year of these renowned meetings, and within the last three years, the Foundation has partnered with the Society of Toxicologic Pathologists to host similar meetings in other parts of the country, including Washington DC, the Midwest, and the west coast.

At many large pathology meetings around the world, you can also find a C.L. Davis satellite seminar. These meetings, often the day prior to a larger convocation, provide a day of outstanding pathology review on a wide variety of subjects for a small additional fee. These meetings are held in conjunction with the ACVP, ESVP, AAVLD, and meetings of the Brazilian, Australian, and Indian Society of Veterinary Pathologists, among others.

Finally, the Foundation is a welcome participant at many meetings around the world. The Foundation co-sponsors many meetings each year by funding members of its renowned Faculty of Discussants to speak at specialized meetings around the world each year. These lectures are financed in part by the successful programs which are a staple of the Foundation’s yearly offerings. We hope to see you at one (or more!) of the Foundation’s courses this year!
Workshop & Symposium on Laboratory Animal Diseases
Sponsored by the C.L. Davis DVM Foundation
Chicago, Illinois, U. S. A.
Wednesday 23 April through Saturday, 26 April, 2014

- Symposia on "Emerging Diseases of Rats" by Dr. Krista LaPerle of The Ohio State University, and "Diseases of Zebrafish" by Dr. Claudia Harper of Biogen Idec, Inc.
- Full use of the Biologic Resource Center’s 14,000 kochachromes, numerous glass slides and DVD lectures on diseases of lab animal species
- Seminars on Primate Taxonomy, Mouse Nomenclature, Review of Equipment Used in Biomedical Research, Review of Legislation, and Alternatives, What’s Your Diagnosis; Mouse Pathology, and a Literature Review.

STP is offering the second course in the Modular Education Series, which will focus on Reproductive System Pathology, April 6-9, 2014 at the Chauncey Conference Center in Princeton, NJ. The course is planned in partnership with the British Society of Toxicological Pathology (BSTP).

The BSTP has offered a Modular Education Series for many years offering two to three courses a year focusing on specific organ systems. In bringing these modular courses to the United States, the STP will offer the same opportunities to pathologists who might not otherwise be able to attend those offered by the BSTP.

This course will include both didactic lectures and practical data and slide review sessions. Microscopic evaluation of histologic sections will be done using whole-slide digital pathology images and practical evaluation/interpretation of toxicologic pathology data will be emphasized.
